THE MAKING OF RAILROADS. THE AMERICAN RAILWAY; ITS CONSTRUCTION, DEVELOPMENT, MANAGEMENT AND APPLANCES, with an Introduction by Thomas M. Cooley, With 200 Riustrations. Royal Svo. pp. xxviii., 456, Soribner & Welford.

This sumptuously made and illustrated volum a thoroughly modern combination of the useful and the beautiful. It consists of essays by spe cialists upon every branch and department of the American railway system, so fully and admirably illustrated that while the work is one for reference and permanent instruction, its artistic side res it all the attraction of a special Christmas ublication. The contributors' names sufficiently attest the sterling worth of the book. The introduction is by Judge Cooley, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Then follow ese essays or chapters: "The Building of a Railway," by Thomas Curtis Clarke, civil engineer; "Feats of Railway Engineering," by John Bogart, State Engineer of New-York; "American Loco. motives and Cars," by M. N. Forney, Editor of Railroad and Engineering Journal" "Railway Management," by General E. P. Alexander, president of the Central Railroad and Banking Company of Georgia; "Safety in Railroad Travel," by H. G. Prout, Editor "Railread Gazette"; "Railway Passenger Travel," by General Hotace Porter, vice-president Pullman Palace Car Company; "The Freight Car Service," by Theodore Voorhies, assistant superintendent New-York Central Railroad; "How to Feed a Railway," by Benjamin Norton, second vice-pres dent Long Island Railroad Company; "The Railway Mail Service," by ex-Postmaster-General Thomas L. James; "The Railway in its Business Yale College; "The Prevention of Railway Relations," by Professor Arthur T. Hadley, of Strikes," by Charles Francis Adams, president of the Union Pacific Railroad: "The Every-Day Life of Railroad Men," by B. B. Adams, jr., Associate Editor "Railroad Gazette"; and "Statistical Railway Studies," illustrated with thirteen maps and nineteen charts, by Fletcher P. Hewes, author of "Scribner's Statistical Atlas."

It will thus be seen that the whole field of t railroad business is covered, and in an authoritative way. There is nothing in connection with it, in fact, which may not be learned between the covers of this handsome volume as fully as is at all necessary for general purposes. Nor do we know of any other single work which so focuses the manifold aspects of that prodigious energy, skill, inventive genius, administrative capacity. and power of organization which are exhibited as never before in the history of man through the development and management of the American Railway. Truly "peace hath her victories, no less renowned than war," and they are seen here at their noblest and most impressive point. The enterprise of the publishers in conceiving and carrying out this encyclopaedic work, and in perfeeting every detail so that it is truly a splendid of American book-making, is to heartfly commended. The book should find a large circulation, for its matter is most valuable, while the manner of presenting this matter is not less attractive and interesting.

WHAT WAS DONE IN STOCKS.

Wednesday, Dec. 4-p. m. Speculation in stocks is again steadily dwindling in volume and consequently the fluctuations constantly in larger railroad earnings. It is natural that, in existing circumstances, the movement of prices should be irregular. Some stocks adis going on a readjustment of values which may be preliminary to a fresh renewal of the perpetual struggle. The coal shares continued to be the centre of interest to-day and perhaps it is only necessary to add that strenuous efforts to depress them resulted in small final gains. Reading, which was intended to be the salient point of attack, moved within narrow limits and actually closed near the highest point, while Lackawanna recorded the same gain, although with less buoyaney. The condition of the anthracite coal trade is well understood to be not all that could be desired, but it is extremely loubtful if the recent fluctuations in the stocks manipulation. It would be improper to suggest that a part of the transactions have been artificial, because the rules of the Stock Exchange carefully provide against fictitious sales. It muss be admitted, therefore, that ail the dealings in Reading and in Lackawanna in the last few days have been legitimate transactions. have been due to anything except professional

Reading and in Lackawanna in the last Iew days have been legitimate transactions.

Asid: from the coal stocks the principal features of the market were the rapid rise in Chicago Gas Trust and the late decline in Missouri Pacific and Atchison. Chicago Gas closed 3 per cent higher, and Atchison 1-2 and Missouri Pacific 11.8 per cent lower. Of the stocks controlled largely in Europe, Louisville and Nash-ville lost 1 and Ontario and Western 11-2 per cent. The reason for the decline in the lastnamed stock was the official denial of the ramer responsible for the previous advance. While the linal gains were more numerous than the losses, the clesing was made yeak by the sharp declines in Missouri Pacific and a few other less prominent stocks.

THE DAY IN THE BOND MARKET. The Treasury bought $13,500 of 4 1-2 per cents at 104 5-8 and $508,100 4 per cents at 127. At the Stock Exchange there was a small sale at the Treasury price. Quotations were unchanged, of course, because the Government is the only buyer:
